“Tasting the Master’s Way”

Saturday May 15, 2010 1-3:00p

Jay Fletcher, Master Sommelier

Holiday Inn Express & Suites Montrose, Colorado

Join Jay Fletcher MS, the unlikely sommelier, Jay Fletcher grew up in the pool halls and restaurant kitchens of Madison, Wisconsin, where he was on his own at the age of eighteen. His hardworking demeanor earned him both a position as a bartender and as Junior State Pocket Billiards Champion, but his quest for adventure is what ultimately led Jay to find his calling.

Jay Fletcher currently serves as the Executive Director of Fine Wine and Master Sommelier for Southern Wine and Spirits of Colorado. He is also the current Chairman of the Court of Master Sommeliers American Chapter’s Board of Directors. Jay is the Cellar Master for the Guild of Sommeliers’ extensive wine collection, an accredited Bordeaux Educator from the L’Ecole du Vin in Bordeaux, France, and a Commandeur d’Honneur from the Commanderie du Bontemps of the Medoc, Graves, Sauternes, and Barsac.

To initiate your palate, Master Sommelier Jay Fletcher will teach guests how to use their eyes, noses and palates to determine varietal, region and vintage with red and white wine. Six wines will be presented in the Court of Master Sommeliers' blind tasting format. Guests will use their new skills to deduce the wines’ origins.

“Taste the Difference”
Why Riedel Really Does Matter
Saturday May 15, 2010 10-12:00p
Shelley Sale, Master Sommelier

Holiday Inn Express & Suites Montrose, Colorado

Join our own Shelley Sale, Master Sommelier, for a journey into why the stemware is important to the tasting of wine.

Don't miss an opportunity to learn and understand the nuances and subtleties that the right glassware has on your perception of fine wine. Shelley will lead us through an educational seminar which will change the way you think about wine forever! There is limited seating at this event so please purchase your tickets early. Each guest attending this event will go home with a first hand Riedel experience and the beautiful selection of glasses used at the tasting.
